[Beesweb] Richard Thompson News - March 2013

"Few singer/songwriters have maintained a career as consistently noteworthy as Thompson, but if the concept of consistency, for some, means a gradual descent into dull predictability, Thompson has achieved exactly the opposite. Almost always appearing at the top of his game, rather than plateauing out Thompson's pinnacle has always seemed just out of reach, meaning that instead of creative flat-lining he's been on a relentlessly upward trajectory. "Electric" is just one more example of how it's possible to stay true to your muse while, at the same time, always ensuring your game is raised." - John Kelman, All About Jazz

"Thompson's rampaging guitar runs manage to never sound overtly indulgent yet glisten and glide. There's a seamless elegance to the man's guitar style - it really could be no one else on that stage, beret cocked to one side, Stratocaster tilting to the folk-funk rhythms. Richard Thompson provided an effortless masterclass in songwriting and guitar technique but above all, graceful, humble acknowledgment of his own outrageous talent." - Colm McAuliffe, music OMH (Shepherd's Bush Empire, London)
